

isaAsiaVienna - "Viennese Traditions"

Special intensive program for Asian music students in Vienna

DATE: August 2013, 2-10

PLACE: University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna, EUROPE

Vienna has been THE city of music for centuries: From baroque times over the Viennese Classics with Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven, from Schubert, Brahms, Bruckner and Mahler to Schönberg and his disciples and a still vibrant scene of composers until today - and last but not least the Strauß Waltz dynasty – Vienna has always been home for the leading musicians of the world!

It is quite natural that thus also the art of musical performance has been at international peak level in Vienna since the times when the Vienna Philharmonic and the State Opera were founded. The mdw - University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna as one of the world's leading institutions in musical training is carrying on all the precious traditions of this unique heritage and at the same time integrating in permanent evolution all the influences of the relevant developments in musical performance practise.

With isaAsiaVienna our university offers a unique intensive course for talented young musicians from Asian countries as an ideal way to have a first encounter with the way music and culture is handled in Vienna. The participants get lessons with famous professors of the mdw, they receive a first insight in the special sound traditions of Viennese instruments and Viennese ensemble playing and they will be shown to the hot spots of Viennese musical history around the city.

Furthermore there will be performance possibilities including the wonderful venue of Mozart and Haydn, the beautiful Schloßtheater of Schönbrunn Palace.

A committed organisation team with intercultural competence including native speakers of Chinese, Korean and Japanese and translators will take care that this week will become an unforgettable experience for all participants.

isaAsiaVienna may turn out to be the first step into a future close relationship with Vienna and our university – it is a perfect opportunity to get to know the institution and the city for further studies!
